Rabid Curiosity: Dancing in the lap of the Gods

at

Kasbah, Hove

Sat 13th and Sat 20th May 2006

"This rabid curiosity is madness", screamed the headline in Santo Domingo's newspaper, Hoy.

This is the latest photographic exhibition (and a record) from Steve DT, of what happened when the Nexus Lap Dancing club opened its doors for the first time. And the furor it caused when it was discovered to be on church property. Eroticism and the Church make un-easy bedfellows.

In 1999, 3 years since the end of the last dictatorship, the Government of Leonel Fernandez was hit by a series of corruption scandals. In to this unstable arena came the American owners of Nexus. They were met with resistance from the Church groups that opposed them, and split loyalties from the police. Into this mayhem, were the dancers themselves, mainly foreign and bemused but fearful for where it might lead.

Hove based photographer Steve DT, premier's this new exhibition. The show takes place in the latest coffee shop to open in Hove, Kasbah.
